

Bogus 10 And 20 Dollar Bills Passed In Belle Glade Area

Poor Quality Is Give Away -

An investigation is continuing into the passing of counterfeit ten and twenty dollar bills which have turned up "mostly in the past two weeks," according to a spokesman for the Belle Glade Police Department's Detective Bureau.

The bogus bills were reported to be "poor" in quality, but acceptable to the untrained eye. J. F. Wooten, president of the Florida First National Bank, reported that the bank has four tens and four twenties. Wooten went on to say that the prints were "good even though they had the wrong serial numbers."

"The printing was of low quality," said Wooten, "mostly around the head and the seal, especially on the right side of the seal."

A spokesman for the Bank of Belle Glade said that they had some tens and twenties which they turned over to the police department because they "looked and felt bad."

Counterfeit bills can also be detected by the difference in the papers texture and the quality of the ink.

Spokesman for the detectives bureau said that they have three tens, each with the same serial number. No arrests have been made.

Beef Production Increased Through Crossbreeding

By R. W. KIDDER
Professor of Animal Husbandry,
Everglades Experiment Station

As the cattle industry of Florida, cattle of Spanish origin have populated much of Florida for 400 years. These have developed into the kind of animals that could survive on native Florida pastures on a year round basis. The first cattle of Brahman breeding were brought into Florida about the time I first became involved in the cattle industry of Florida. The native or "criollo" cattle were of Bos Taurus ancestry and when mated to Brahman of Bos Indicus breeding, the result was a hybrid or crossbred. This crossbred cow was 50% larger at maturity than the native parent cow. Mature weights increased from 1,000 to 900 pounds in one generation.

The Brahman breed became very popular and very adventageous, so that today native cattle are almost extinct and most Florida range cattle are more or less Brahman. The generations of Brahman that followed the first cross did not continue to improve. We know now but didn't know then that this hybrid vigor was largely responsible for the big improvement in the first generation. Angus and Hereford sires were then mated to these Brahman crossbreds. The first cross again was excellent, but there was a decline in weaning weights of calves from the succeeding generations. Some of these crosses needed to be tried under controlled conditions to evaluate what was happening. Crossbreeding was started at the Everglades Experiment Station in 1944-45 and several reports were made in the early 1950's.

Crossbreeding for market beef production is destined to become an established practice in American agriculture. This positive statement is in opposition to the ideas promoted by some College authorities and breed associations as recently as 10 to 15 years ago. Generally these ideas were that to breed to sires of one chosen breed in successive generations was the quickest route to production of beef production. No questions the great progress which beef cattle have attained by this process. The continuous breeding of purebred cattle in all of the breeds is the foundation of any breeding system or program for meat animal production which can be improved with so little. The time never will arrive when all of the slaughter cattle will come from purebred or straightbred animals. However, the time may come when beef sires other than purebred or especially high quality straightbred will be very few and far between. Thus, the role of the breeder of purebred becomes established as the source of breeding sires for commercial beef producers. This indicates that breeders of purebred cattle must produce the kind of animals that give the most production for the commercial operator.

This idea is not in opposition to show ring winners but may produce some changes in show ring standards. New methods of determining growth rates of individual animals be judged in selecting the better animals. We look for production records on cattle we "judge" or select for purchase and set out these important specifications in the show ring. The buyer for meat "judges" each of the sires selected. In each case the commercial producer is dependent on breeders of purebreds for his sires, which develop a continuing market for purebred sires. The purebred breeder must organize his production program to supply the kind of sires demanded.

Crossbreeding should help the purebred breeder by developing a continuing market for his bulls. When a purebred sire is sold to another breeder of purebreds, the progeny of this sire will continue to compete for the bull market. When such a bull is sold to a breeder of crossbreds, his male crossbred calves will all be marketed as meat animals, and as long as the producer of meat animals can purchase the kind of bulls he needs at a price he can afford to pay, he will not attempt to produce bulls on his own herd.

Crossbreeding also makes it possible for the cattlemen to use a bull for a longer period of years because there is no inbreeding involved. A combination of three breeds may increase heterosis. It also increases the management problem and decreases uniformity which basically influences selling value. If satisfactory results are obtained with two breeds, there seems to be little to recommend the addition of a third breed. A three-breed plan may become a practical program in the future.

The superior performance of crossbreds over their parent breeds is due to heterosis or hybrid vigor. A hybrid is an animal (or plant) bred from two species. The typical example in American agriculture is the meat crossbred or hybrid vigor is expressed by the added growth rate or productive capacity of two species over that of the parents.

Heterosis or hybrid vigor is obtained in beef cattle when a purebred (or straightbred) of one breed is mated to a similar animal of the opposite sex in another breed. For several years this was not exhibited by the only way to obtain hybrid vigor. More recently, additional hybrid vigor has been obtained when a crossbred cow is mated to a purebred sire of either parent breed. This plan makes it possible to retain the crossbred cow in the breeding herd since she not only exhibits hybrid vigor in her own growth but she shows it in her mothering ability, as her calves sirel growth rate than she did. When straightbred and a crossbred cows are maintained together under the same system of management, the crossbred calves make more improvement in growth rate and weaning weight from one generation to the next than do the straightbred calves of either parent breed. Successive generations from such crossbred cows may not produce as much heterosis as first cross animals but there is additional growth and response in each succeeding generation.

When two beef breeds of British origin are crossed there is approximately twice as much improvement in growth rate due to heterosis. Recent reports from Texas indicate that breeders of the European mainland such as Charolais or the large dairy breeds like Brown Swiss, Holstein, demonstrate a hybrid vigor when crossed with Angus or Hereford than two beef breeds from the same source. Range cattle, such as Florida Idals should increase knowledge about the crosses with Charolais. When the Brahman is crossed with these British breeds the heterosis effect is 20% or more. Hence, breeders of purebred Brahman cattle on the threshold of a new demand for high quality sires which probably will not be restricted to the Gulf coast and southern states.

Several new breeds of cattle have been developed within the last 25 years. These usually are grouped together as the new American breeds and are progeny of Brahman mixed with breeds of European origin, and include Santa Gertrudis, Brangus, Beefmaster and Charbray. These breeds will fit into a crossbreeding program with any of the other beef breeds. Research has not had time to find out how much heterosis these new breeds will produce. It is known that the Brangus and Angus is a promising combination and the Santa Gertrudis breed has produced good results when used with Herefords in a two-breed crossbreeding program.

How do we know that heterosis is obtained when a purebred is mated to a crossbred? The breeding project progress at Everglades Experiment Station, Belle Glade, Florida is operated in such a way as to compare the growth rates of these crossbreds with straightbred cattle of the same parent breeds. The cows are divided into 9 herds, with 3 herds of about 36 cows in each of sires of

THE FISHING REPORT

The speckled perch fishermen continued bringing in nice catches last week and over the weekend in spite of the wind on Saturday and Sunday. Many limit and near limit catches were reported.

Base fishing was spotty over the weekend, but is expected to improve with the good weather that is forecast for the next few days.

There were far too many speck catches to name every one.

The 3 breeds involved — Angus, Brahman and Hereford. Each of the nine herds contains three breeding cells or groups. One third of each herd is the breed of the sire and the other two-thirds are crossbreeds with the other two breeds involved. The performance of the crossbreeds is in direct and continuous comparison with the straightbred in 3 replications each year. The measure of heterosis is the difference in performance of the crossbreeds over that of the straightbreds. Can a crossbred bull be used?

Previous work with Brahman-Devon crossbreeds at the Everglades Station has been reported in Florida Bulletin 673. When crossbred sires selected with high growth rates were mated to cows of similar breeding the mature weight of the progeny was about the same as that of the foundation breeds. There was an advantage in weaning weights but this was lost before maturity. In this work, these crossbred sires were also mated to Devon cows and Brahman cows. Crossbred calves from these matings responded about the same as the calves from crossbred cows sired by purebred bulls. This indicates that heterosis can come from using either male or female purebred parents. In establishing a wide solection of blood lines as the foundations of the new American breeds as "open herd" policy is in use. The International Brangus Breeders Association has certain rules under which a selected 3/4 Brahman sire (2nd cross) can be mated to Angus cows to produce first generation Brangus animals, subject to inspection. The Santa Gertrudis Breeders' International has a program whereby fourth generation offspring from Santa Gertrudis sires may qualify as certified purebreds. In this breed there are 9 basic rules involved, including inspection. These are very good programs. Further improvement of these breeds will come with the same type of selection and production testing as is used in the older established beef breeds. The general public acceptance of these American breeds is sufficient evidence of their great importance to the cattle industry.

There is no substitute for adequate nutrition in any breeding program, and crossbreeding is no exception. Good feeding and management is always important. The cow in use with some modifications is a potential to a high level of production but these animals will never reach that potential if they are kept on short rations during their growing months. Good nutrition includes plenty of feed, water and the essential minerals. Maintenance of good health and vaccination programs are essential to good management.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Crime Commission Incites Mobocracy

As evidence continues to grow that indicates the United States faces an insurrectionary situation in its big cities this summer, public officials and ordinary citizens need helpful information on what can be done to prevent riots and to maintain the domestic tranquility set forth as a goal of our government. Unfortunately, so much advice is available in the recently released report of the National Commission on Civil Disorders.

The Commission, established after last summer's orgy of rioting and looting, seems more interested in giving an extra push to Great Society delirious giveaway programs than it is in tackling the root causes of disorders. In its findings, the Commission tells little about the causes of riots. But it reveals a great deal about its own intellectual bankruptcy. All the Commission has to recommend is "unprecedented" spending of welfare, education and anti-poverty programs.

The Commission's own phrase "unprecedented funding" certainly is apt, for the mind expenditures on the scale of $2 BILLION a month. To which the law-abiding citizens of this country may properly say, never has so great a demand for tribute been proposed to any people. For that is what such spending would be — tribute, or blackmail, paid to those who have at their disposal, "Burn, baby, burn."

Ever since the New Frontier took office in 1961, the taxpayers have had to dig deep into their pockets to pay for enormously stepped-up welfare programs. The Johnson administration has waged its War on Poverty at colossal cost. Every city in the nation has its Economic Opportunity Commission that lades out taxpayer-supplied funds. Last year, President Johnson estimated that his administration already is spending $25 billion a year for all the welfare and welfare-related programs have. Obviously, federal spending won't prevent riots. Detroit, Michigan, had an anti-poverty program and major federal housing programs. Nevertheless, Detroit was the target of the Negro war in the streets.

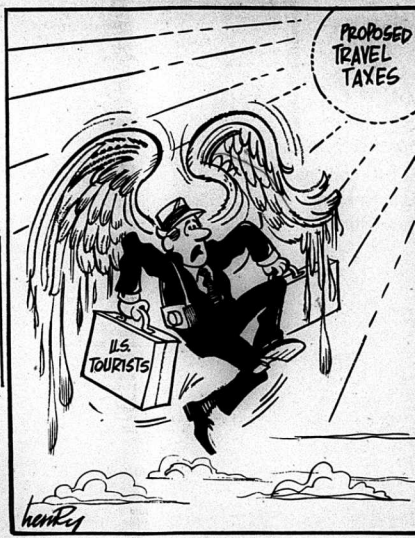

The people who incite and plan riots — the cadres in the streets.

WINGS OF WAX

Too Late to Classify

By Russell Kay
While so-called "civilized" man is plagued with a variety of deadly diseases that have baffled medical science for centuries — cancer, heart disease, bookworm, malaria, tooth decay and mental illness — tribes we would term savages, living in filth and poverty in primitive jungles of South America, inhabit what Dr. Eugene H. Payne, M.D., scientist and researcher, term "Islands of Immunity," live free from such maladies.

Dr. Payne, served for years with Parke-Davis and Co., as a member of their clinical investigation staff, traveled the world testing new drugs and later representing the United States Government with the Economic Foreign Administration. He recently retired and is writing his memoirs at Bonita Springs in Florida.

His travels into the hinterland of South America brought him to these amazing areas of immunity. These areas were found in the jungles of Brazil, Ecuador and Peru. Here he encountered existence of the medical secrets so precious that their discovery might alter the course of history.

These villages, immune from particular diseases, were in most primitive surroundings — sanitation was nil, filth and poverty rampant but still natives resisted heart trouble, cancer and a host of other ailments. Why?

In areas where water contained no trace of fluoride natives had no cavities. Their teeth were perfect. Why? In other areas natives had never experienced any form of heart trouble, cancer or malaria. Why?

Today, these immune areas are very large and all around them there is sickness and death. Another amazing thing is that a traveler coming from outside the area carrying an infectious disease such as malaria does not infect residents of the immune area when all scientific rigors they should apply to an epidemic. In fact if they remain in the immune area they recover quickly. This is no known cure today.

Spring Has Sprung ...

Feel any different? Have any new notions, cravings, or unexplained restlessness? Well, don't worry, it's a common ailment, spring has sprung! At 8:22 a. m. Wednesday morning spring officially arrived.

Spring seems to have a definite effect on living things in general. Birds return to their homes, seaworms surface and began tunneling and there seems to be a general thought of "let's get busy, everybody." Spring makes her mark, on people of all ages too. Fathers begin reading fishing tackle and polishing golf clubs while dreaming wistfully of lazy times on the about homework as their thoughts turn more toward each other. Small fry are restless and anxious to get outside. Even mothers may be caught looking longingly at their winter clothes and dreaming of the new spring fashions. It's epidemic time again for "spring fever," don't fight it, just enjoy it!

Church of God Has New Pastor

Rev. Norman Powell has assumed the pastorage of the Belle Glade Church of God, effective Sunday morning when he brought his first message. No record of a most cordial welcome by the congregation.

The minister fills the post vacated by Rev. Madison Stiles, pastor here for the past five years. Rev. Powell comes here from Davis, Fla., where he has pastored for the past five years. He started a new church at that time which is now valued at $100,000 and a parsonage valued at $20,000. He also left a host of friends.

Rev. Powell was born and raised in Ft. Lauderdale, received his education at Lee College, Cleveland, Tenn., a Church sponsored college. He held pastorate in North Carolina and in Missouri, before coming back to his home state.

Following the service, the congregation will gather in the church's Quarters Conference.

The congregation will hear several annual reports presented including one from the Nominating Committee which will name those to be elected as officers of the church for the year 1968-69.

Sunday School Dept. Contest Underway

Grace Pentecostal Holiness Church is launching a contest in the Sunday School Department, which will continue through Easter. The boys and girls bringing in the most new members during this period will be given a new bicycle.

This is a good way to increase Sunday School attendance and have fun at the same time in addition to getting a new bicycle.

"Miracle Worker" To Be Presented Tonight

Tonight "The Miracle Worker," a three act play by William Gibson, will be presented by the Senior Class in the gym at 8:00. A second performance will be given tomorrow night. The play is directed by Speech Teacher John Mayberry. Jean Jackson is the student director. Tickets, which can be bought at the door, cost $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Mrs. Sue Toets, Senior English teacher, will supervise the putting on of make-up.

Starting in the production is Patty Stevenson as Anne Sullivan, Mary Helen Fontaine as Helen Keller, Dick Hooker as Colonel Hooker, Helen's father, Janet Wolf as her wife, Kate, and Johnny Williams as her son, James. Others in the cast include:

From Winter To Spring

The day was dark and gloomy. Cold rain fell in torrents. A biting wind blew from the north.

Trees were brown and dead. Flowers all wilted and shriveled.

People walked, not looking at one another. Wrapped in their own warm thoughts.

No laughing, no talking. People hurrying to get out of the cold.

Then... A small miracle... The rain began to slacken. The streets turned to mud. The wind died to a soft breeze. A tiny ray of sunshine peaked from behind a white cloud. Flowers started to bloom. Trees began to bud. Somewhere in the distance a bird began to sing.

New Effects Add To The Play

One of the new aspects of this year's Senior Play, THE MIRACLE WORKER, will be the organization of a more efficient lighting and sound system.

These operations are being directed by Richard McMillan, Jim Baker, Larry Murray, and Steven Butler.

They have been advised and assisted by Mr. James Ballard.

In the past years only the existing lighting fixtures in the auditorium have been used. Now in use is a control box with individual switches, light dimmers, and a wider variety of lighting colors. For the first time, the scenes will be lighted with 35 individually operated.

A Remarkable Woman

Helen Adams Keller was born June 27, 1880, in Tuscumbia, Alabama. Nineteen months later she caught Scarlet Fever, which left her blind and deaf for the rest of her life. Her parents, terribly upset, took her to specialists all over the country, but they could do nothing to help. Finally she was taken to see Alexander Graham Bell, who, besides being an inventor, had taught the deaf. As a result of his advice, a young teacher, Miss Annie Sullivan, was sent to teach Helen. From 1887 until Miss Sullivan's death, in 1936, she remained Helen's teacher.

Both teacher and pupil were remarkably gifted. Helen, after living for six years in a sightless and soundless world, finally learned the manual alphabet and the meaning of words. By placing her sensitive fingers on the lips and throat of her teacher she learned to "hear" her speech. Three years later, she learned to speak herself.

When Miss Keller was twenty she was able to enter Radcliffe College. She received her Bachelor of Arts degree in 1904 with honors. She used textbooks in braille and Miss Sullivan attended classes with her, spelling the lectures into her hand.

Miss Keller helped to found the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind, and served on this commission. She raised more money for the American Foundation for the Blind than any other person. She traveled and lectured widely and received honors and awards from foreign governments and international bodies.

Today Miss Keller lives in Connecticut and is eighty-eight years old. Her hands are so tender from reading that braille books are covered with silk. There is a Japanese lantern in front of Miss Keller's home that burns day and night, but when she dies it will go out.

Tennis Team Competed In Third Match

The tennis team competed in their third match of the season, March 7, against Stuart. The girls dropped in both singles and doubles with the boys having one win by Steve Lowrey in his singles match.

The team was a bit more fortunate in their fourth match against Boca Raton, last Thursday, March 14. The girls again lost but the boys had a single win by Terry Lee and Steve Lowrey.

Mrs. Wanda Goggins, tennis coach, has this to say about the team: "You have to take into consideration the fact that most of the team is Sophomores with a few Juniors being the only ones with experience. I am sure they will improve in time."

Today there is a match in Pahokee.

Mr. Mayberry, did you finally find your car on the school parking after practice last Wednesday night?

Joanne H., why were you so scared last Wednesday? Was it because of a certain talk you had to do?

Gail D., we hear that some magazine salesman are ALRIGHT! ... Tell us about it.

Miss Powell, what did you write on Mr. Mayberry's car? Just WHAT??

Clubs

PARA MEDICS — The Mather School of Nursing will present a program on nursing and their school next Tuesday night.

The program will be given by Miss Anne Ernest, Student Activities Co-ordinator, at the school in New Orleans. The program will be their regular monthly meeting and it will be held in the Glades General Hospital cafeteria.

LIBRARY CLUB — The Library Club held a meeting last Thursday night in the Library to begin work on a kit for the Student Council talent show.

BIG MOUTH

Golf Conference Coming Up

Nearing the end of the golf season both the girls and the boys teams have done very well. With only two more games before conference the boys have four losses, two wins and two ties. The girls have a little better standing, with four wins, one loss and one tie.

For the girls to qualify for state, a 55 or below is required. Belle Glade got in the 3rd inning of play when seven of their men walked in due to a "weak arm" pitcher. The Brahmins already had eight runs at this stage of the game, and they later scored four more, to end the game with a win of 12-7. This was BG's first league game.

BELLE GLADE vs. JUPITER, 10-2.

This was a winner for the Rams. The boys began to get some wind behind the ball, and Jorge Rodriguez got a "football field" home run. The battered Warriors were too weak to even fight the warm-up of Rams, but in the end of the game they managed to get two meekly runs. Henry Rionda was the winning pitcher.

BELLE GLADE vs. STUART, 3-3.

At the present time the Rams had to erase 3 runs from their book in the top of the eighth inning. This brought the score back to their tie, and left the Stuart Tigers with a glad heart.

A Busy Week For Baseball

Due to the date articles are needed for the Kampans, it will be impossible to get a complete coverage for each game in our paper. To solve this problem we are going to put in a few comments about as many games as we possibly can each week.

BELLE GLADE vs. OKEECHOBEE, 7-12.

"The Accident"

A Narrative Writing
By Mary Miller
Third Hour English

On Monday, February 25, I went through my heart-breaking and scary moments. I'll begin my happenings by starting with bright and early Monday morning through late Monday night. Here are some of the sudden happenings that may seem impossible to some; but as for me it just happened.

1. I gave out of gas taking my mother to work.

2. I was late for school.

3. I couldn't get home after school due to bad weather.

4. To experience a terrible accident.

5. I was constantly nagged all night.

Out of the five terrifying events above I have chosen only three for my story. I couldn't get home after school due to bad weather. The accident; and the constant nagging I heard almost all night.

During the school day, Monday, it started to rain. Knowing that I hadn't cleaned up before I left for school, I was constantly going to the window in the cafeteria.

With my luck, the rain didn't stop, so at 3:30 I was home from school. I had a lot to do, and a very short time in which to do it. Knowing that I couldn't clean the house and cook before my mother arrived home at five, I just sort of played it safe. Because after all, I knew that I was going to be argued at, so look at it in my way, why should I be tired when it happened? I left the food on the stove while I went to the store to get some extra biscuits which lead up to the accident.

In this event I was merely trying to save my own neck, but it seemed the only thing I achieved was more trouble. When I left the house and was pulling into the driveway of the store, a man in an old beat-up truck hit our car right smack in the side. The man talked very nicely about it, but still I wasn't satisfied because I knew this accident would only add on to the anger my mother would be facing when she reached home. So I went into the store to get the biscuits and went home. Somehow I felt that the "Almighty God" had at last turned against me. Handfuls of foolish thoughts stamped my brain, while I struggled hard for survival. But the fact still remained that the food wasn't cooked and that the car was bent, looking at the clock constantly with water welding in my eyes time seemed to be flying by, while I just stood there unable to do anything about it! Meanwhile the strain was getting too great for me to stand so I tried by lying down. Then it was 5 o'clock and I peeped out of the window and saw my mother coming, so I sat upright waiting for the unforgettable moments.

As mother was walking up I turned my back because I thought sure she would see the long dent on the right side of the car, but luckily she didn't. When she entered the house my heart seemed to be jumping over the blood it had thus pumped. Mother walked in and in the kitchen and looked in the pots and turned to me and said, "Why haven't you finished cooking?" I was trying to explain but knowing my mother I thought it was best I remained quiet. My heart then seemed to be getting too large for my small chest so I burst out into tears. After I finished cooking, no one ate. I don't know why my mother didn't eat but as for me I wanted nothing that had caused me so much uneasiness even if it was food.

I know that I should have told my mother about the car but somehow I couldn't. I knew that I had cleaned up or later find out, but why not later, because with that added to my other incidents, I couldn't have gotten any sleep that night.

I know that I have my unforgettable events for that particular day. In the final event I was trying hard to survive and did so by being dishonest. The only thing I cared about was my "SAVING MY OWN NECK."

Helpful Hints

FINISHING TOUCHES

Q. I have a tan wool outfit. It has a pleated skirt and a loose overblouse with a wide, rolled collar. How can I accentuate it?

A. The wide, rolled collar eliminates the need for neck accessories such as pins, neckties, or scarves. But you can still wear your favorite gem if you pin it strategically to the bottom of your overblouse.

SLIM LINES

Q. I am very slim. Would straight skirts look all right on me?

A. An ideal skirt shape depends upon your height. If you are short, a straight or slim A-line skirt is most flattering. On the other hand, if you are tall, you need the added fullness of pleats and gathers for better proportions. A slim figure-hugging skirt elongates a tall thin figure.

THE PATENT PROBLEM

Q. Is it proper to wear black lipstick look smooth?

A. Patent leather was always the spring and summer shoe material primarily because of its ingenuity. The new soft, pliable, coming, so I sat upright waiting for the unforgettable moments.

Will You Be Chosen?

Well fellow graduates it's that time again when we take a few more of those last wishes that we have before leaving our beloved school. We've all accomplished something in our 12 years of school life, so let's sit down and analyze what you think we have. Time has come for us to choose our class "Superlatives and Favorites."

Below is a list of what will be arrived from our class.

Senior Superlatives: Best football players: Best Basketball players: Friendliest: Best All around: Most likely to succeed: Most Studious: Most Talented: Most Popular: Most Ambitious: Most Dignified: Most Sincere: Senior Favorites: Most Courteous: Best school spirit: Most Humorous: Best Athlete: Best Dressed: Neatest: Best Personalities: Most Talkative: Best Leadership Ability: Most Loyal: and Most Active.

Well seniors, there you have. Have you made it yet? Now is a time to be recognized as an outstanding member of "our" class. Look out you may be lucky!

Also keep your fingers as free of hangnails as possible. To smooth your cuticles, soak your fingertips in a bowl of warm, soapy water for about half a minute. Then wrap an orange stick in a very small piece of cotton, moisten with cuticle remover, and push back the cuticle very gently, working around the base and sides of the nail. With a fresh piece of cotton, wipe away the loosened cuticle. Slip off any hangnails with cuticle scissors — never bite them.

It Would Be Wild!

Wouldn't it be a ball having each boy had all the below named qualities?

Girl! How about this?

What if all the boys were:

Tall as Wayne Holloway
Determined as Ronnie Booth
Wise as Beaver Dyer
Stern as Charles Walker
Dignified as Rodney Reynolds
Talented as Johnny McKeelvin?

It's just as wild!!!
And you boys, What if all the girls were as:

Sincere as Catherine Lowe
Tall as Edna Johnson
Determined as Ruth Byrd
Wise as Vivian Berry
Stern as Pamela Shannonhouse.
Dignified as Diane Wilford
Talented as Carolyn Wiper
Courteous as Annie McKeelvin....?

I can't say for sure, but I'm positive Lake Shore would be a much different place. Don't you agree?

What's Hitting Around Campus

Hey gang! Would you like to know what is going on around campus? Of course you would. I'll stop kidding around and tell you.

I'm sure you know the "Big H" around campus. Day in and Day out, the Senior Class Play, the play "A Man Called Peter" is scheduled for April 18 & 19, 1968. The characters are practicing, seemingly, for infallibility. The play is to be the best yet.

Peter and Catherine are becoming so involved in their roles that they've started "holding hands" in class. What do you think of that? Sue and George are having "Love problems" — well, that's natural!

Oh, yes, there must be the Old Hens in every affair! There must be some way to keep the trouble stirred up. Well, "A Man Called Peter" is no exception. Oh, I'm sure you have heard of the witty, feisty, and witty canning "Bickles" assist. They always keep things going — but in the wrong way. They are the "typical" old chortling "GRANNIES." I'm sure you don't want to miss them.

Of course you will want to see "Senior Pop." He's against all teenagers. Against us the leaders of tomorrow. I know that you will be there to defend yourselves — teenagers! But no need to do that. He's the worst, handsome, intelligent young man, in "A Man Called Peter." Like everyone else he has his problem. To give you an idea of his troubles let's recall for a minute. Allen has family troubles (that's natural for teenagers). He is being teased like a little baby by "Chick," trying to be kept under the "Hens" wing, but against his will. Will you be there to see the breaking point? The last thread pop?

Don't miss a single minute of it. The play is scheduled for the 18th and 19th of April. Prepare now to come early so that you will get a seat.

So that the run-down on the happenings for now, I'll fill you in on the up-light happenings around campus from time to time.

Band Rated Excellent

On March 19, 1968, the Florida Bandmaster Association District 8 Concert Festival was held. The festival was of inspection type with festival judges visiting each participating school within the District. Lake Shore Marching Band's inspection was held at 10:15 a.m. in the Lake Shore gymnasium.

The "Golden Bobcat Band" of Lake Shore Jr.-Sr. High received an excellent rating in District VII Concert Contest. The judges were in complete agreement on the rating. The Band played before the senior high student body and was well received by entire body.

The band played the following selection:

1. Bravura March — Duple
2. Ringold Rhapsody — Cass
3. Toccata for Band — Erickson

Ringgold was the required selection. We are very proud of the band performance.

A Criminal?

NO!!

A child who breaks a law is a juvenile delinquent, not a criminal. In the United States, he is tried in special courts where every effort is made to help keep him from crime.

At most any kind of action or behavior on the part of a child which endangers his own well-being may be considered juvenile delinquency. In New York, the law says that a child who begs for money in public, associates with bad persons, or visits illegal places, such as bars, is a delinquent. The definition varies in different states.

The general cause of juvenile delinquency are found in the social conditions of the time. Certain trends in everyday life have made youth feel insecure, and unsure of what is good conduct and what is bad. Children often get the idea that behavior is to be judged only by its success in getting the individual what he wants. In the last twenty-five years when family life has become much less important to young and old alike, children reflect the loss of standards and insecurity that they feel in their parents and in other adults.

The juvenile court was the first step in the important direction of handling youthful lawbreakers as children, rather than as criminals who should be punished. The probation system has made it possible to watch over the child without taking him away from his home. The social workers of the juvenile courts and of other social agencies try to give the child a more normal life.

At present, many agencies and organizations are trying to prevent juvenile delinquency before it occurs. Special studies are being placed on playgrounds and programs of recreation for youth. Youth organizations such as Boy and Girl Scouts have camps where children can spend their vacations. YMCA and YWCA groups provide athletic opportunities, recreational, programs, and clubs and handicraft activities. Those who are concerned with juvenile delinquency come to realize that if it can be prevented only when every child is given a full opportunity to lead a happy, contented, healthy and useful life.

Captains present for the luncheon were Floyd Collingsworth, Youth Captain; Mrs. Harold Zumpf, N. E. Section; Mrs. John Chambliss, S. E. Section; Howard Payne, N. W. Section and W. C. Taylor, S. W. section.

The house to house campaign is underway this week. Mr. Rogers handed out envelopes and other material to be given to the volunteer workers working under captains in their section of the city.

Atrazine makes cane labor more profitable.

As weed killers, hand laborers are just too costly. But they're indispensable for other vital cane growing jobs. So use them for those jobs. Not for weed control.

Weed control is the job for Atrazine. The herbicide most recommended for growing clean sugarcane.

The reason is it works.

Atrazine controls most annual broadleaf and grassy weeds, including pittedweed, lambquarters, crabgrass, pigweed and others.

And it does it easily, economically. Without damaging the crop. Without irritating the applicator. And reduces or eliminates costly hand labor.

The payoff is a bigger yield. Mainly, because Atrazine clean sugarcane has all the soil nutrients, moisture and sunlight to itself. And weeds can't stop proper tillering.

In the past, weed control may have been something you got around to if you had the time and the labor.

But not anymore. Not since Atrazine made weed control so profitable.

If you're not using Atrazine yet, you may not be making the most efficient use of your labor and equipment. Check with your supplier. Or for more information write us.
